"Life experience always gives you more emotional depth and layers – and I have experienced great loss and great love – but more than anything, it's having an interest in people. Acting is connecting with others."

In 2010, she started a production company, Leading Lady Productions and produced her first film, Asanda, in 2014 – 10 years after her debut in Tsotsi.

She told principal photographer on the project, Gary Van Wyk about her production company. "I've always know that there's a lifespan when it comes to being in front of the camera – especially for women – and I wanted to be a storyteller, not just as an actor."

Van Wyk explained the visual elements behind Pheto's portrait which will be revealed on 31 January. "A beaded 'Oscar' lying to her right – a reference to her starring role in the Academy award winning film Tsotsi – Pheto, clad in a tuxedo, is photographed seated in an empty theatre leaning toward the camera.

"Her expression is strong and focused, Pheto is depicted as a formidable force within the film industry, a resilient woman whose grit has seen her rise from township theatre performer to South Africa's leading lady."

Pheto's short film and portrait will air on SABC 3 at 7.27pm on 31 January, with a repeat episode airing the next day at 5.57pm on the same channel.
