Home My Now About Search Stories... Register Login

There's nothing luxe about lounging in a cattle kraal, but then again 'luxe' isn't how you might describe the product that brought entrepreneur Ludwick Marishane here in the first place.

Ludwick is the inventor of DryBath – a waterless bathing replacement solution. Funnily though, this environmentally friendly option designed with the poor and water-insecure in mind, has also found a market with some of the most privileged people in the world – young, wealthy, first-world campers and festival-goers.

Youth innovation

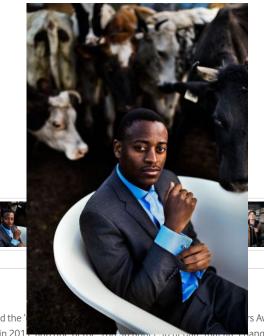

DryBath, it turns out, is as multi-faceted and surprising as its inventor.

The eighth portrait and short film of the 21 Icons third season, entitled The Solution, captured these contradictions beautifully, as Ludwick, dressed in the sharpest of suits, reclines in an empty bath, with a backdrop of curious bovines.

'Taking inspiration from the name of his invention, DryBath [...] the portrait references not only his inspired innovation but his humble beginnings in rural Limpopo,' explains photographer Gary van Wyk.

International acclaim

Ludwick became the country's youngest patent holder when he lodged his claim on the components of DryBath at just 17. Today, at 25, he is the founder of a business, HeadBoy Industries, a Bachelor of Business Science graduate, and has a slew of awards and titles to his name.

These include being named the '12 brightest young minds in 2014, TIME Magazine in 2013.

rs Awards 2011, one of Google's anging the world' according to

Now he can claim '21 Icons alumnus' on his laudable CV too, having been selected for 'his pursuit of a sustainable society' and 'his role in creating a mindful contribution to youth development', the organisation said in a statement.

Even the United Nations is on board, acquiring DryBath for humanitarian aid and relief workers to use in the field.

And all of this came from a business plan that began life on a mobile phone because teenage Ludwick had no access to a computer!

About 21 Icons

21 Icons is a film and photographic initiative that captures and commemorates South African champions, with a view to 'showcas[ing] the pivotal moments of South Africa's nation-building journey'. The project was established by photographer Adrian Steirn in 2013, and has already had two critically acclaimed and popular seasons.

The third season focuses on our icons in the making, the country's visionary youth leaders under 35. You can connect with 21 Icons on Twitter, @21Icons, or with the hashtag #OurFuturelsNow

For more coverage, check out our stories on the third season so far:

- Thato Kgatlhanye
- · Laduma Ngxokolo
- · Catherine Constantinides
- · Lucas Sithole
- · Thulani Madondo
- · Jes Foord
- · Athi-Patra Ruga
- · Photographer Gary van Wyk

See 21icons.com for more. Tags lifestyle people south africa innovation

If you liked this, you might enjoy the stories below.

21 Icons celebrates Jes Foord

Rape survivor and activist Jes Foord has turned her experience of sexual violence into a beacon of hope for others.

21 Icons celebrates Thulani Madondo

Rising up and bringing his community with him, education activist Thulani Madondo is featured in the latest season of 21 Icons.

lifestyle 21 Icons celebrates Lucas Sithole

Top of his game: 21 Icons features our top wheelchair tennis champ, gland slam winner Lucas Sithole lifestyle

21 Icons: Catherine Constantinides

 $21\,lcons$ celebrates the passion and work of environmentalist Catherine Constantinides in its latest portrait.

lifestyle 21 Icons celebrates Laduma Ngxokolo

Xhosa-inspired design has landed textile designer Laduma Naxokolo some major global wins, and a #21lcons portrait too.

lifestyle 21 Icons celebrates Thato Kgatlhanye

21 Icons features social entrepreneur Thato Kgatlhanye, who turned waste into wonder with her project Repurpose Schoolbags.

© Vodacom 2015. All rights reserved. All images © Getty Images, unless stated otherwise. Terms of Use